What is the Cooperative Doctoral Program for Disaster Nursing?

The Cooperative Doctoral Program for Disaster Nursing is a joint postgraduate program launched by five universities: University of Kochi, University of Hyogo, Chiba University, Tokyo Medical and Dental University, and Japanese Red Cross College of Nursing. Based on experiences from the aftermath Great East Japan Earthquake 2011, five universities that have been leading in disaster nursing came together and developed an educational program called “Disaster Nursing Global Leader (DNGL) Degree Program.” This program aims to foster global nurse leaders to (1) confront and solve several problems in disaster nursing, both in Japan and around the world; (2) acquire a high level of practical skills as well as educational and research abilities; (3) exercise interdisciplinary leadership in global settings; and (4) contribute to constituting a healthy society and providing safety, relief, and autonomy. This is the first inter-curricular program wherein the five leading universities in Disaster Nursing collaborate to administer a cooperative program.

1. Inter-Curricular Program

Private and public universities unite to cooperate in this inter-curricular program to strengthen and reinforce the functions of education, research, and social contribution. The program reciprocally utilizes the universities’ educational resources.

2. Characteristics of the Program

(1) The degree will be awarded by the universities consisting of this inter-curricular program (henceforth, Joint Universities).

Degree: Doctor of Philosophy in Nursing (Disaster Nursing Global Leader)

(2) Students will be affiliated to universities according to the affiliations of their primary supervisors.

(3) Students are allowed to use all facilities of Joint Universities.

(4) Students can receive instructions from secondary supervisors in other Joint Universities.

(5) Distance education using multiple media allows students to attend classes in other Joint Universities from their affiliated universities.

3. Admissions Policy

The principal aim of the Admissions Policy is to offer admissions to students who

- Have a vision as global leaders in disaster nursing.

- Participate in various activities and develop the necessary competence as global leaders in disaster nursing.

4. Important Notices

(1) Application to a University

An applicant applies to one of the Joint Universities and takes its entrance examination. Concerning admission, the potential applicant should contact the chosen university in advance and check its examination schedule and course modules. The applicant’s ensuing “affiliation” will be the university where the entrance examinations were taken. In other words, the applicant must follow all the enrollment procedures, including the tuition fee payment and application for scholarship designated at each university.

(2) Point to note regarding submission of applications

The curriculum in this program is offered jointly by five universities, so anyone who has completed enrollment procedures for the cooperative disaster nursing program at one of the five member universities may not undertake procedures to enroll for the same course at the other member universities.
